

Assignment - 2

1. Display the username of the currently logged-in user.
2. Display information about the current user, including:
 - User ID (UID)
 - Group ID (GID)
3. Display the users currently logged into the system.
4. Create a new user Student 1, Student 2, Student 3 and verify it.
5. Display the UID, GID and group information for Student 1
6. Create the following groups: students, faculty.
7. Display information about the newly created groups.
8. Display all groups available on the Linux system.
9. Add User student1 to group Student.
10. Check Group Membership. For student1, display all groups to which the user belongs.
11. Set a password for: student1
12. Check whether you can identify the password aging information for student1.
13. Switch from your current account to: Student 1
14. Delete a User: Student 3
15. Delete a Group: Faculty
16. Change the login shell of student1 to: /bin/bash
17. Change the home directory of student2 to: /home/student2
18. Lock the account of student3.
19. Verify that the account of student3 has been locked.
20. Unlock the account of student3.
21. Verify that the account has been unlocked.